to be unleashed by anti-human globalists?

Unless We the People stop them, climate fanatics like billionaire eugenicist Bill Gates are planning to inject you and your family with climate change and global warming "vaccines."

Right now, they are already injecting meat animals with climate jabs, claiming these are necessary to keep the animals "safe" from fictitious diseases. Eventually, they will proceed to start jabbing you and your family with the same "vaccines," assuming you let them.

Technocracy.news writer Yudi Sherman warned back in January that the only way to stop these "genetic maniacs" from destroying the human race with their mystery chemical injections is to "take away their keycards and their containment suits, immediately escort them out of their laboratories, permanently ban them from any other scientific research for life, and then raze the buildings to the ground."

If it sounds extreme, consider the fact that a company called ArkeaBio just raised $26.5 million in Series A seed funding to begin developing climate jabs for the human masses. can be sure that once these injections are ready to go, there will be another "pandemic" or "emergency" to predicate their forced use.

"If you can't grasp the seriousness of this, then you may be marked for depopulation," warns the Technocracy.news editor.

"Vaccines" to prevent cows from passing gas

This might sound like something from The Babylon Bee, but the reality is that ArkeaBio has already begun developing a new "vaccine" that mad scientists say will stop cows and other meat animals from releasing methane emissions, i.e., passing gas.

Human knowledge is under attack! Governments and powerful corporations are using censorship to wipe out humanity's knowledge base about nutrition, herbs, self-reliance, natural immunity, food production, preparedness and much more. The claim is that the shots will alter the animals' immune systems in such a way as to create antibodies that target methane-producing microbes.

ArkeaBio secured its first major investment in late 2022 from Breakthrough Energy Ventures, an investment fund founded by Bill Gates.

"Our vaccination-based approach allows for much-needed decarbonization of global meat and dairy products across multiple geographies, supporting greater sustainability in agriculture," the company's website explains.

ArkeaBio has not announced any plans to create a human version of its anti-fart injection, but another company called Gingko Bioworks has. Gingko, which is also funded by Gates, is pushing to develop mRNA (modRNA) injections that it says will help to stop the planet from warming.

The World Economic Forum (WEF) has expressed support for the plan, stating it is a "critical response to the climate crisis."

"In the face of climate change, vaccines play a crucial but underestimated role," wrote British pharmaceutical giant GlaxoSmithKline (GSK) back in December on its website.

AstraZeneca, maker of a shamed and now-pulled-from-the-market viral vector Wuhan coronavirus (COVID-19) vaccine, also wants in on the gravy train by manufacturing its own climate jabs as well.

Two months prior, Thomas Triomphe, executive vice president of vaccines at rival Sanofi, wrote an entire article called "Vaccine innovation is a critical response to the climate crisis" that expresses the same interest in developing climate injections.

The only type of "climate change" these demons are trying to stop is their own change from rich to poor as their corrupt financial and war empire implodes on itself. Big Pharma will die unless it continues to churn out new injections for every made-up disease under the sun, the latest being so-called climate change.

"This madness has to end now," one angry commenter wrote about the insanity coming from Big Pharma and the Bill Gates brigade.

"I'm immensely comforted to know the flood Gates of biotech are unleashed, to wash us in redemptive waters of climate salvation by delivering us from the ubiquitous evil of carbon," joked another about the religious cult aspects of climate change.
